THE LOOP

World renowned golf course architect Tom Doak and his team at Renaissance Golf Design have built a reversible 18-hole golf course at Forest Dunes.

“The Loop” features two distinct layouts using the same 18 greens but playing clockwise one day (White Routing) and counterclockwise the next (Red Routing). The concept isn’t a new one, after all St. Andrews was built to be played in two different directions. But, iconic holes like the Road Hole (No. 17) and the par-3 11th were “must plays” and pushed the alternate routing into extinction.

What Doak has done with The Loop is constructed two equally-impressive tracks using a special piece of land to the west of Forest Dunes’ current course. The relatively flat, sand-based earth is the perfect location for this concept giving owner Lew Thompson a revolutionary course to go along with Forest Dunes’ top 25 nationally ranked public course.

The Loop and its fescue fairways are walking only with a professional caddie service available. Play on The Loop is reserved for Forest Dunes overnight guests.

To learn more about The Loop, stop by the golf shop and visit with our golf professionals.
